In this directory, one of McMinnville's longtime lawyers says that the rule of law is the very foundation of the legal system. He notes that as our country has grown and matured, so have our laws multiplied. Laws are on the books today that address situations now commonplace—issues and scenarios that did not even exist only decades ago. We think that navigating the complex American legal system requires professionals of the highest caliber. That’s why we’ve put together this directory—we’re calling Legal Briefs.
